

NUCLEAR DECOMMISSIONING AUTHORITY

#DECOMM

Your round up of news, views and blogs

April 2020 / Issue No #06

Helping to make a difference

Our skilled workforce across the NDA group has risen quickly to the sudden and ongoing challenge of the COVID-19 pandemic.

From donating vital personal protective equipment for our NHS to use in fighting the disease, to actually making it from scratch – our scientists, engineers, safety teams and other personnel have been helping in this time of international crisis.

Andrew van der Lem, the NDA's Head of Government Relations, shares his thoughts in the latest NDA blog.

Read more

Magnox funds community front line work

Magnox, working together with the Nuclear Decommissioning Authority, has announced that it will provide £300,000 in funding to help support communities during the coronavirus pandemic.

Read more

Amy signs up as a community volunteer

A couple of weeks ago, some Sellafield Ltd employees were given the go-ahead to volunteer to support the local community response to Covid-19 during work time. One of the first people to sign up was Amy Caddy...

Read more

Magnox blood runners biking for Britain

During these unprecedented times, Magnox staff have stepped up to perform a host of vital volunteering roles across the UK. And those with two wheels are supporting front line staff from their motorbike saddle by delivering blood and other critical items for the NHS.

Read more

LLWR makes second donation of PPE

LLW Repository Ltd has made a second major donation of Personal Protective Equipment to support the NHS's battle against COVID-19 in Cumbria.

Following an initial donation of 560 all-in-one protective suits to the North West Ambulance Service, the company has delivered an even larger consignment to the Cumbria Local Resilience Forum.

Read more

Dounreay lends a hand to the Highlands

Dounreay site in the north of Scotland has joined in with the coordinated effort across the NDA group. Staff at the site, near Thurso in Caithness, are also being made available to help work on projects to help the region's response to the Covid-19 outbreak.

Read more

DRS helping to keep the country rolling

The team at Direct Rail Services (DRS) has pulled out all the stops to make sure it can carry on delivering essential services throughout the Covid-19 outbreak. The Carlisle-based firm has placed extra layers of safety and protection for all its staff working across the UK.

Read more

